Conference Week Starts Monday

Faculty-Student Conference Week February 19-24

The week of February 19th has been set aside as a Faculty-Student Conference period. During this week lectures will be cancelled and there will be no formal instructions.

The purpose of this Conference Week is to give students an opportunity to bring their academic study programs up to date. Members of the Faculty will be available for individual and group interviews. As far as possible interviews, group discussions, and problem sessions should be arranged in advance between instructors and students. The time and place of group meetings should be reported to Mrs. Matthies in the General Office. Personal interviews can be arranged directly with the instructors concerned.

During this week all except senior students will begin advanced registration for the 1962-63 term. The Registrar and the Dean will meet with groups of students to explain the several course programs. A schedule of meetings for this advanced registration will be posted. This will be the only opportunity to discuss course programs for the coming term. Failure to complete advance registration before the end of March will involve a penalty.

This Conference Week should not be considered a vacation period just because lectures are cancelled. All students are expected to be "on campus" throughout the week. Only in this way can the opportunity afforded be used to best advantage. Because some students abused the privilege last year, the faculty considered seriously omitting the Conference Week this year. A repetition of such misuse will cancel the privilege for next year's student.

Shakespearean Performance

On Thursday and Friday, February 8 and 9 at 8:00 p.m. at the Waterloo Collegiate Institute, the Stratford Shakespearean Festival in association with this University and the Canada Council presented "Two Programs of Shakespearean Comedy" devised and staged by Michael Langham.

On Thursday night, the players demonstrated that a lecture can be given in a different form. The script of the performance was designed to present to the students a rehearsal which included opinions from the performers and comments on Shakespearean comedy. The comments on the use of blank verse, rhyming couplets, and prose extended to the audience an appreciation of the versatility of Shakespeare's writing. For each device, the players acted out an example. They held the attention of the audience with their quick pace, their lightheartedness, and skilful acting.

The second program on Friday night was devoted to proving the premise that the best qualities of the female were superior to the best qualities of the male. In order to do this the actors selected scenes from The Two Gentlemen of Verona, Twelfth Night, The Taming of the Shrew, and The Merchant of Venice. It was interesting to note how scenes could be taken out of the different plays and could be performed without using the whole script of the plays. As well, the audience took delight in the beautiful costumes, a feature which has helped to spread the renown of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival. The audience was well rewarded for its attendance at both performances.

An interesting session was held in the Music Room of the University on Thursday. William Needles, Amelia Hall, and Bruce Swerdfager were there to give us an interesting insight into the theatre. Professor Clark played the "devil's advocate" for the first period which dealt with Shakespearean comedy and Doctor Honeyford presided over the second period which dealt with Shakespearean tragedy.

Between the periods a talk was given on Shakespearean music by Professor McClain, and was followed by musical selections sung by Miss Doris Baulch, Mr. George Merner and Mr. David Shaw.

The program for the two days was both informative and delightful.

in the newly issued Philosophy statement of this university. It is claimed that this document exemplifies a narrowing of the educational philosophy of this institution and if this is the case, we as students are directly involved, but how are we to judge if the document is not made available to us? In questioning administration officials regarding the statement, we were informed that it was only for the use of the administration and as in other colleges, not made available to the student body, yet should this not be cleared up?

In regards to the loss of three very competent professors, Dr. Villeneuve assured us that competent qualified replacements will be appointed. But, will the new course in Geog. and Planning be continued or not? We think it only fair to point out that this is the only course of its kind in Canada and was initiated by Dr.

Income Tax Deductions

A recent amendment to the Income Tax Act permits students who are normally taxable and who are in full-time attendance at a college or other educational institution in Canada at a post-secondary level, to deduct from their earnings in computing their taxable income that portion of their fee that covers tuition, paid in respect of a period not exceeding twelve months.

The applicable section of the Act, Section 11(1)(q.b.) which states that the following may be deducted in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year:

"Tuition fees of students—Where a taxpayer was during the year a student in full-time attendance at a university in a course leading to a degree, or in full-time attendance at a college or other educational institution in Canada in a course at a post-secondary school level, the amount of any fees for this tuition paid to the university, college, or other educational institution in respect of a period not exceeding 12 months commencing in the year and not included in the calculation of a deduction under this paragraph for a previous year (except any such fees paid in respect of a course of less than 13 consecutive weeks' duration)." This section is applicable to the 1961 and subsequent taxation years.

Fees covering student activities, athletic activities, health insurance, health services, the cost of books and supplies, and residence fees are not deductible.

Only the student whose earnings during a calendar year exceed his personal exemptions, and is thereby liable for Income Tax, may claim any deduction. For such students, the Business Office will supply on request and after the total fees for the session have been paid a certificate in a form approved by the Income Tax Department.

If the claim is in part based on a certificate for the immediately preceding session it is not necessary that WUC Students Attend Model U.N.

The fourth University Model United Nations was held at the University of Montreal from February 7th-10th followed by the annual meeting of SUNAC on the 11th. The delegates from Waterloo University College were Tom Ramautarsingh, (Leader) Nancy Phillips, Elaine Lambert and Mike Klosch; we represented Guatemala. Some of the 72 universities in attendance were, New York University, Yale, McGill University, M.I.T., Mount Allison U., Toronto University, Loyola College, Boston University, Laval University, Princeton University, U. B.C., Assumption University, Air Force Academy in Colorado, Carleton University, Western and Queens. The events on the official schedule lasted from 8:30 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. After that, caucuses were held lasting as late as 3:00 a.m. These included the Afro-Asian, the Latin-American, the NATO countries, the Soviet bloc and the Western powers. We are pleased to note that three of the Latin-American caucuses were chaired by Tom. At these caucuses, discussions took place on resolutions coming up the next day, the Security Council and the Trusteeship Council. In the Latin American bloc, Cuba and the Dominican Republic were the dissenting and obstructing factors with regards to the pro-western attitude adopted by this bloc.

Two formal addresses were given by Allan MacNaughton, a former Canadian member of the U.N. and by the Honourable René Levesque, Quebec cabinet minister. Mr. MacNaughton stated that we cannot abandon the U.N. today because of its great purpose of peace and stressed there were 3 considerations all nations should give to the U.N.; namely — a practical study of the ideals of the U.N., secondly, the realization of its short existence and the great work it has accomplished, the importance of considering human values and condemned privileged societies for attempting to control the underprivileged societies. He also touched on the Separatist movement in Quebec.

Resolutions that were accepted to be on the Agenda:

1. "Concerning the financial crisis in the U.N. Be it resolved that countries who have not paid their assessment, be denied the vote." This resolution was tabled.

2. Be it resolved that the representatives of the People's Republic of China take their rightful place in the assembly. This resolution was rejected.

3. Be it resolved that a commission of 5 members be established to study political status of territories whose condition of self-government is in dispute. This resolution was passed. Guatemala received severe criticism for some of its comments. The Soviet bloc was much disturbed and Hungary stated that Guatemala had become "the mouthpiece of imperialist U.S.A." Albania also objected to the part of the speech, which stated, "where fresh air was once present, foul air now exits."

We cannot underestimate the workings of the U.N. for the complexities

Faculty, Student, Administration Relations

During the past few days, rumors regarding faculty administration rifts have been running rampant on campus. Rumors such as those brought to our attention can only have a detrimental effect on students, faculty and administration.

Some members of the Cord staff have spent the better part of two days in an attempt to gather enough information to present the facts as they now stand and also to present some questions to which we feel the students are entitled to have an answer.

The only true fact which has circulated along with other "flashes" is that three members of the W.U.C. Geography department have resigned, effective in the spring. From this fact have grown the most fantastic stories as to why and also

Dear Sir,

As of late, our W.U.C. has been a prime target for derogatory comments concerning its size, or rather, lack of it. No one will sanely challenge the analytical eye of the engineer in his measurement of the physical, but with anything outside of a slide rule and logarithmic table he is open to question.

Last Sunday evening, while listening to the weekly college radio program, I rather doubt that even the "plumbers" could not form some kind of valid argument that would more than sufficiently prove the smallness of our school, in more than the physical aspect.

For fifty-five glorious minutes, the Waterloo, and surrounding area audience was subjected to the howling and cackling of a well-formed, "mutual admiration society," whose members brought along their own horns, just in case. One by one, the "caste" of "Kampus Kapers" marched forward to give their honest "toot-toots" of the show, and especially themselves. The listening audience could not have been anything other than impressed with their candid honesty, if they listened longer than fifteen minutes. The commentators of the program, with their many, but many, different questions and comments were as much valuable publicity to the cause, as were the so well-informed cast and company.

The precious radio time given to the school by local business afforded our neighbours down the street enough of the smallness idea, that one may well need a microscope to count the audience at the first KK show—Oh! but the commentators are going; at least, all is not lost.

W. GORDON McPHERSON

Dear Sir:

In recent weeks much discussion has been generated by the Truth Seeker with his provocative messages on the bulletin board.

Much as many of us deplore this method of "seeking truth" we feel that this man has the right to outline his arguments without petty objections from people who are obviously religious bigots. The very fact that the notices have been torn down surely indicates that the vandals have no concrete arguments to produce in their favour. Arguments should be attacked with arguments and not with such childish reactions as have been displayed here. If the truth seeker is genuine in his search then this is no way to encourage him to continue his search until he finds, as he must eventually, that nothing is proven conclusively by texts taken out of their context, but that Jesus Christ is the answer to the search of man.

It is a disappointment that in a Christian institution which is dedicated to truth seeking we should have some individuals with no concept of the basic democratic right of free speech.

—The "clan's" chief, Frankie is Playing (the) Fields for Prince Philip. Like D. Fairbanks, Jr., there's a knighthood which cannot flower. American citizenship will nip it in the bud.

—Royalists' hopes have been rising for years in France, Spain and Portugal. There is a slim chance that the "Noblesse Oblige" will return to those nations, but they will have to be a little more "obliging" than "noble".

—Elizabeth has been queen for over ten years, has been in almost every country in the world, is a permanent fixture on the "best dressed" list, and has personally held together a crumbling commonwealth; yet the socialists are still screaming that she's getting paid too much. If she reigns for another 100 years, the cost of maintaining her would be less than half of the "groundnut" experiment the Labour party set up and bungled in Africa.

—A most interesting fellow, M. Pierre Trudeau. During the dictatorship of M. Duplessis, Trudeau published the manifesto for a democratic revolution. Here in our own country the suppression of the individual by a police state was obviously present (one federal party courted it and the other cajoled it), but now this new felt freedom is rising in Quebec and expressing itself in a nationalistic feeling. Perhaps Ontario will also rise one day, when it frees itself from the shackles of the U.S. devotees. Oh, for an English speaking M. Trudeau, who might be the first martyr of an economic revolution.

—Pleasant to see the President of U of W at the Stratford productions. He accepted the plaudits with unassuming dignity.

—"Some are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them." (Shakespeare), but then there is the large proportion which is afraid to sign letters.

—Too often we have sat quietly by, letting the compromises build shaky structures until such time that we have lost all sense of value and then wondered why the fault did not pass away. Too often have we joined the side of strength, to feel that we are secure because of our proximity only to be disillusioned when this greatness faltered and fell. Each one of us has enough power in himself to stand for what is right, to fight against anything other than that which is right, but because we have to stand alone we back down, we show fear, we compromise. If there is only one thing that we shall have learned when we leave here, and that is the strength of the individual when he is right, then we will be worthy of a new democracy built on the principles of truth, honesty and the value of "little" man, throughout the world.

What's In A Name?

Students who scanned the notice board outside room 208 this week will have noticed an article published in the Coryphaeus of the University of Waterloo entitled "What's in a Name".

The article is written in answer to criticism at that institution regarding a proposed change of its name. It states that since the quality of W.U.C. is so poor, any confusion in the two universities may be detrimental to the reputation of the University of Waterloo.

One reason the University of Waterloo may want to change its name is the public image that it has created for itself. There has been so much publicity given to its engineering faculties that it is having trouble attracting arts students to its campus.

It is true that confusion does exist and the fact that they have waited this long may be because they hoped we would change the name of our institution. But let us not forget that our "little arts college", as they refer to us, was here first, giving us first claim to the name Waterloo. The onus is on the "new boy" to adapt himself as he might. And so we have a "sour grapes" reaction. "You can have it, we didn't really want it anyway."

The intensity of the attack is another point of interest. It is a fact that we are smaller than the University of Waterloo. Then should it not be we who are the jealous brothers? In scanning over back issues of the Cord one finds no anxious letters bitterly attacking that institution. Yet we are continually assaulted in print and by acts of vandalism. It would appear that "Hagey U." has something of an inferiority complex towards our "little arts college."

The article criticizes W.U.C. for having low admission requirements. I am surprised that they did not also mention the fact that we cram 850 students into a building that was built for 350, and that our classes extend from 8:00 a.m. until 10:00 p.m.

W.U.C. is doing its best to meet the craving for education that is sweeping the nation. The low requirements, the packed classrooms, and the long hours of lectures enable the door of education to be opened to many for whom it would otherwise be denied. Graduate standards equal to those at Western are maintained by a higher failure rate. The task of education is, to us, more important and at half time the score was 43-24. H.I.T. came within 1 point, 21-20, seven minutes before half-time but the Hawks pulled themselves together to outscore them 22-4 until the half. In the second half, the Hawks just toyed with their opposition and scored at will.

Everybody on the team got on the scoring bandwagon. Gary Cuff lead with 18, followed by Bob Woodburn 16, Court Heinbuch 14, and Merv Bolton, 12. Gallina lead the losers with 22, and Long and Koslowski split 24 points.

The win put the Hawks into a tie for second place with a 5-3 record. There are only three games left in the schedule and if the Hawks win all three, they will enter the play-offs against the first place team. The game was held up at the start because the uniforms arrived late. Fortunately H.I.T. supplied the team with their away uniforms and the change in color did not hurt us.

by David Freeman

The Hawks continued their winning ways, taking their third straight 59-39. The win put the Hawks in sole possession of 2nd place and a playoff spot. Their second in league play is now 6-3 with three games remaining on the schedule.

The game itself was a very ragged affair manned by frequent fouling. The Hawks continued their recent bottom of the certificate for the latest session. A certificate would then relate always to a full session.

A student is entitled to allocate the fees paid in respect of a session so that part may be claimed in the taxation year in which the session started and part in the taxation year in which the session ends.

Any reasonable apportionment of sessional fees between taxation years will be acceptable. Normally, it would be expected that a 50-50 split would be made.

It should be noted particularly that it is the student who is entitled to the Income Tax deduction and not his parent or some other person, even though the latter may have paid the tuition fees on the student's behalf. So far as parent's own income tax return is concerned, the only significance of the amount of tuition fees is in determining whether or not a son or daughter qualifies as a dependent. Under the Income Tax Act, a student who might otherwise qualify as a dependent generally is disqualified if his income for the year exceeds $950.00. In determining whether or not a dependent's income exceeds $950.00 the amount of allowable tuition fees is a deduction that may be taken into account.

than the prestige of high admission requirements and empty classrooms.

In passing, we must inform our antagonist that in spite of our overcrowding and long hours we were unable to accommodate all applications and admission requirements next year will be set at 60 per cent for nine papers.

In regards to the journalistic aspects of the afore mentioned article, we find it begins with an formula of winning by getting in front and staying there. The chances for winning were hampered somewhat when part way through the first half, Gary Cuff was injured and had to retire for the night.

To make things worse, Fedor Bolton received fouls early in the game but the Hawks overcame these difficulties to lead at half time 27-21. The second half was much better than the first but the Hawks were not extended too much in finally winning.

Leading the scoring parade for the winners was Court Heinbuch with 18, Ed Ochiera 13, Merv Bolton 12 and Bob Woodburn 8. The losers were led by Firmeman, Green, and Forbes all with 8 points. The Hawks were sparked in the game by the "ball-hawking" of Bob Woodburn and the consistent good shooting of Heinbuch and Ochiera. The way the team has been moving the past couple of weeks it could very easily bring a second championship to W.U.C. this school year, but this cannot be done without more support from you, the student body. So take a break from studying and follow the Hawks!

Student Parking Regulations

1. Any student wishing to park on the University campus, in the parking areas reserved for students, must register the vehicle. On registration of the vehicle, car registration stickers will be issued up to the limit of the number of parking spaces available to students in the following priority:

Parking stickers must be permanently displayed on the windshield in such a manner as not to interfere with the driver's vision, but which must be visible to a person outside the vehicle.

Student parking regulations become effective Wednesday, February 14, 1962.

2. Students are prohibited at all times from parking in an area other than that authorized by permit. Cars will be towed away from restricted parking areas.

3. Students will be subject to fine for any infraction of the University Vehicle Registration and Parking Regulations on the following scale:

rences and to ask questions. While discussing many of the rumors, several good questions have been raised. For example, what are going to be the changes in admission requirements and academic standards for the coming year? What new buildings will be erected on campus for the coming year and how will they be financed? By government grants, gov't. loans, alumni donations or church donations? Another problem which plays havoc with some peoples' emotions is that of religion. When questioned in regards to the rumor concerning future faculty appointments on the basis of religion, Dr. Villaume stated this was ridiculous and absurd. He commented that appointments will continue as in the past, on the basis of qualifications and on the recommendation of the department head. It was pointed out by one faculty member that there was not much change in the religious emphasis of the institution but then the question arises why the sudden accent on the corporate title, WLU?

We believe it should be pointed out that neither the Geography Department nor the Administration was fit to issue a statement to the students. Administration officials indicated it was unlikely that they would issue any statement in regards to the many rumors.

Administration officials and some faculty felt any mention of the rumors in the Cord would only aggravate matters and that the rumors would, with time, dispel themselves. Contrary to this we feel that when there is so much confusion in the air, the rumors should be presented in the open and dispelled by facts, set down in black and white. It is particularly important that these points be clarified at this time when the students are being asked to pre-register and sign nify their desire to return here for further studies.

We believe most students realize that Dr. Villaume and his staff are working under difficult conditions, particularly in the wake of the not too popular past two presidents of W.U.C. But the students find it rather surprising that ¾ of a provincially famous Geography department have decided to leave. Despite assurances from the administration, 20 plus honors Geography students are not too optimistic about the possibility of obtaining top flight replacements before September.

There are several personal and other considerations involved in all the questions raised but we hope that all the parties involved will see fit to issue complete statements for the next issue of the Cord. As there will be no issue published during conference week, this will afford sufficient time to draft statements. In fact, a possible solution may be the holding of a "press" conference next week with student, faculty and administration officials present.

One thing is sure, if someone has the answers, we the students are entitled to them.

Until statements are forthcoming, we stress to the students that spreading idle rumors does not solve anything and only clouds an already obscure picture.

In closing, we would like to pass along a comment of one student, a comment which we feel depicts the possible fates of W.L.U. Over the next five years, the course of this institution will be set. It may become one of three things, a prominent liberal arts college, an obscure arts college or a seminary.

We have tried to present all the questions and issues as we know them, the Cord is now open to replies from the powers that be and the people with the answers.

There is going to be a Retreat Weekend, March 2-4. Can you come? It might be a little cold, but there will be a little fun and challenge too; Marion Jackson, our staff representative, will be there as theme speaker.

Hawks Win First Hockey Battle

by Murray Ross

After losing to O.A.C. the previous Thursday, by the score of 6-0, the Hawks came back against Osgoode Hall and won their first game of the season, 7-6 last Wednesday evening. The Hawks started slowly, spotting the Lawyers an early 2 goal lead but soon found the mark when Heinbecker scored at 3:20 followed by Clocher at 11:30. Osgoode added another counter and the period ended 3-2. The College came on strong in the middle session, scoring three times and held a 5-3 lead at the end of forty minutes of play. Randle, Cowan and Heacock were the marksmen.

At this point, I expected our ten players to melt into the ice, and I think that the other four fans agreed with me. Indeed, this seemed to be the case, as the Lawyers scored three fast goals to lead six to five with ten minutes remaining. The Hawks peppered the Osgoode goal for nine minutes before Jim Randle, on a fancy rush, tied the score on his own second or third rebound; then Paul Heinbecker gave the Hockey Hawks their first win at 19:22 of the last period.

The shots on goal were, by Osgoode 26, by W.U.C. 43.

WUC Student To Go To Africa

It was announced last week that Bruce Evenden, a second year pre-theology student at Waterloo University College, was one of twenty-five Canadian students selected to go to Africa this summer as a member of "Operation — Crossroads Africa".

The twenty-three year old son of Mr. & Mrs. George Evenden of Hamilton was chosen mainly for the high leadership qualities he displayed in working with minority groups and boys clubs in Hamilton. Studying to be a social worker, Bruce will leave for Africa on June 22nd.

Sponsored by the United Church of Canada, Operation Crossroads is sending its twenty-five members to live among the African people for ten weeks. During these weeks the students will work with the Africans and study their way of life. Living under the same conditions as the African people will enable the students to clearly understand the problems that face the African nations today.

While in Africa the students will spend most of their time living and working with tribal groups in rural areas but some time will be devoted to meetings and seminars with political and government leaders, educators, businessmen, European and African officials and village chiefs.

Dr. D. C. Masters, Professor of History at Bishop's University, Lennoxville, Quebec, delivered a most interesting University Lecture entitled "A Christian View of History". Professor Masters, author of "A Short History of Canada", "The Rise of Toronto" and "The Winnipeg General Strike" spoke to students, faculty and the general public last Wednesday in the Waterloo Collegiate auditorium.

The Way I See It

by Pete Rempel

We, at WUC, were most fortunate to play host to a cast of Stratford Shakespearean Festival actors who last Thursday and Friday nights presented two programs of Shakespearean comedy.

This presentation, the second of about a dozen to be presented across Canada, was financed jointly by the University (Waterloo Lutheran, that is) and the Canada Council and was held at the Waterloo Collegiate auditorium.

The script for both performances, prepared by Michael Langham, the Artistic Director at Stratford, was modified by the actors so that their parts would seem more natural.

After repeated requests to Professor Clarke and Mr. Bruce Swerfager, company manager for the University tour, we and our editor, Peter Homenuck, finally gained a brief interview with one of the top actors engaged for the tour—Mr. Bruno Gerussi. Persistence does pay.

First intending to enter a career in medicine, he was persuaded to enter a school play and there discovered he had a natural talent for acting. Working in summer stock and studying drama under a scholarship, he eventually ended up at Stratford.

Having only a few moments for the brief interview, we asked his opinion on a variety of topics; and here record a few of his comments:

THE SEMINAR

An excellent vehicle for putting Shakespeare across to the student and arousing interest in this type of drama.

TYPE OF PRESENTATION

He felt that the show was excellently suited for college students since it was lively, entertaining, and yet informative.

RECEPTION BY THE AUDIENCE

Mr. Gerussi and the other actors were greatly pleased with the enthusiasm displayed by the students and others who attended the performances.

JACK KEROUAC

He said that Kerouac is not selective in his writing and often "throws the whole garbage in". He added, "A lot that Kerouac produces is trash but some of it is good."

ACTING MEDIUMS

Television work, he described as fun to do occasionally but intimated that stage work and Shakespeare would always be his first loves.

Finally we brought the conversation

Students' Council Action

by Shari Graham

At the meeting of February 7th, the minutes were read and adopted. Jack Leon of WUS reported that the Share campaign was being started to raise money for self-help projects. He said that booths will be set up in the hall and the faculty and students will be canvassed. Mr. Leon also announced that WUS is working through the Administration to obtain funds for sending the student to Poland.

Margaret Emerson, NFCUS chairman, reported that NFCUS had decided not to alter their present method of electing officers and that they also suggested the name "Liaison Officer" for the proposed Minister of Foreign Affairs position.

Tom Freure read a memo from Miss Pederson which stated that with regard to the bulletin board situation—or lack of it—we will be referred to Professor Morgenson. The memo also stated that the Administration would prefer to make one more attempt to correct the messy state of the Torque Room, before taking drastic action, which will take place if the situation does not improve.

A letter from Dr. Villaume was read in which he stated that the name, Waterloo University College will be used on the graduation diploma.

Mr. Freure reported that $68.50 was given to the United Nations Club. This money was taken on the basis of an average of the recommended amounts by Students' Council members. The emergency measure taken in giving the $68.50 to the United Nations Club was ratified by the Council.

John Erb announced that Rodger Davidson and he have arranged an exhibit of paintings which will be on display in the Women's Residence recreation room from Feb. 28 to March 4. He stated that there will be thirty to forty paintings of contemporary artists, and he asked the support of the Students' Council, other than financial.

Fred Jacobie moved that the motion made regarding the Minister of Foreign Affairs be deleted and the Students' Council suggest that NFCUS nominate someone for the position next year. Roger Lillyman seconded it. Motion carried.

After various changes to the Constitution and a lengthy discussion of the Students' Council, the meeting was adjourned.

Geography Club

A well attended meeting of the campus Geography Club was held on Wed. Feb. 7th. The film entitled "Can The Earth Provide?" was shown at this time. It asked the viewers to consider; when the earth's capacity to produce steak and potatoes, rice or corn is exhausted, will science be able to feed mankind? The film answered this important question by suggesting that in the near future it will not be feasible for the scientist to replace the farmer and fisherman in the role of food producer. Plankton and seaweed were proposed as potential sources of food, even though unpalatable by our standards, but they were promptly dismissed as immediate solutions to the dilemma because of their high cost of exploitation from the sea.

Members of the panel who led the discussion after the film were Prof. Ellenton, Physics and Geology around to one of our favourite topics, pogonotrophy, (you don't know what it means? look it up—we had to!). Having seen Mr. Gerussi in several recent television appearances, we were greatly intrigued by the beard that graces his visage. In reply to our query, he replied that because he enjoyed the position of a recognized actor, he could afford to grow that which is so roundly condemned by many. His immediate family, those who are important to him, appreciate it; so he ignores the barbs of others.

Some styles of beards he compared to "a muskrat looking over a mud fence."

A young girl, with a crush on a very young gentleman in her class, had made a valentine especially for him and for a long time pondered over the verse to be enclosed therein. Suddenly remembering a word she had heard in Sunday School and hence it must be proper, she quickly dashed off a couplet which she sent to the object of her affections:

If you will be my Valentine,
I will be your concubine."
